

ABSTRACT

Method and system for interface checking and interface method dispatching for wireless devices. Relationships between classes and object-oriented interfaces are analyzed and certain properties are exploited for use in performing interface checking and/or interface method dispatching.